LogiNext Germany to Launch in September with an Expanded Range of Topics

Hamburg, 4 March 2026 – LogiNext Germany will be postponed from April to 2–3 September 2026 and will be closely integrated in terms of content and structure with all about ports (aap) at the CCH – Congress Center Hamburg. This creates a strong connection and an intensive exchange between digital logistics, the maritime industry, and port innovation, reflecting the crucial role of ports in the global supply chain.

“The market clearly indicates strong demand for LogiNext Germany, particularly where digital logistics intersects with port innovation and the maritime supply chain. By integrating the event with all about ports in September, we unlock powerful synergies and significantly enhance its relevance for exhibitors and visitors alike. September provides the optimal moment to bring together companies, innovations and decision-makers at scale,” says Ricardo Vivas, Cluster Manager, Royal Dutch Jaarbeurs.

Expanded Content Concept

The close integration with all about ports broadens LogiNext Germany’s focus significantly: On the one hand, the planned core topics around the digital transformation in logistics – including AI, data intelligence, automation, and connected systems – will remain in place. On the other hand, new focus areas in maritime logistics and port innovation will be added at the interface with all about ports.

This connection builds new thematic bridges between onshore and offshore logistics. “Aligning LogiNext Germany with all about ports both in content and structure offers enormous potential,” says Heiko M. Stutzinger, CEO of Hamburg Messe und Congress. “Digital logistics meets maritime innovation – creating a platform that will become even more relevant for many companies in the future.”
